13. Current Bulletin description:
This is an eight-week clinical course designed to provide physician assistant students with experience in evaluation and treating common problems encountered in pediatrics. Experience is provided at the level of a primary care physician assistant, and emphasis is placed on performing a pediatric history and physical exam, selecting and interpreting laboratory exams, establishing a logical differential diagnosis, conducting research on pediatric problems, performing selected procedures, and establishing a tentative treatment plan.

Proposed Bulletin description:
This is a four-week clinical course designed to provide physician assistant students with experience in evaluation and treating common problems encountered in pediatrics. Experience is provided at the level of a primary care physician assistant, and emphasis is placed on performing a pediatric history and physical exam, selecting and interpreting laboratory exams, establishing a logical differential diagnosis, conducting research on pediatric problems, performing selected procedures, and establishing a tentative treatment plan.

14. What has prompted this change?
A revision to the clinical curriculum that allows more student choice in selecting clerkships consistent with their career goals. It also eliminates overlap between the PA clerkship students over the calendar year.

In 2001 the UK Division of PA Studies began offering the Masters Degree. It was anticipated at that time that the curriculum would require ongoing re-evaluation and periodic revision. This proposed change, along with the proposed change to PAS 663 (Surgery Clerkship), reflects such an improvement through a reduction of these six credit hour (8 week) clerkships to three credit hour (four week) clerkships. While this represents an overall decrease of 6 credit hours, three credit hours will be replaced through allowing students to take PAS 842 (elective) twice. This will provide for more tailoring of their training to their future career goals. The changes will provide better training for the students by allowing for more advanced training in the area of their choice than is currently provided by the 8 week clerkships in general surgery and general pediatrics. Individualized training improves our graduates' qualifications for clinical positions.

These changes are in line with the program's long term curriculum strategy and are reflective of changes in current medical education and the medical practice environment. All course objectives will remain intact. The overall decrease in the program requirements by 3 hours (to a total of 97 hours) in no way diminishes the student's training or experience.

As a result of the program's experience with five graduating classes since 2001, certain problems have come to light. One such problem with the current 13 months of clerkships is a one month calendar overlap that is detrimental to both students and the program. This overlap between the two student classes increases competition for rotation sites and decreases the students' opportunities to be placed at the best sites. This reduction in the overall program by 3 hours will eliminate the one month overlap for our clinical year students while allowing students to customize their training.
