Rationale for Proposal: Many students transfer a 3-credit Introductory Psychology course to the University. Such courses are the equivalent of the lecture content in our PSY 100, but they do not contain a lab component. If these students pursue a Minor in Psychology they will come up one our short of the currently required 20 credits and will have to take an additional course in psychology to get over the 20 credit requirement. The change would allow these students fulfill the minor without having to take an additional course.
